CONSENT FOR OSTEOPATHIC TREATMENT

I understand that, in consenting to undergo Osteopathic Manipulative Treatment, I recognize that any of the following could occur:

1. I could feel sore, experience more pain, headaches, or unusual fatigue for a few days following a treatment.
2. It is possible for complaints to worsen before getting better, with the possibility that discomfort could develop in new areas.
3. My body may change through these treatments, seeking it's own new balance point.

The intent of Osteopathic Treatment is to improve the functioning of the musculoskeletal system, and this often leads to an improved sense of well-being, but no guarantees are given about resolution of specific complaints.
